Basic Freedoms

Canadians can believe anything they want. This is called “freedom of religion”. You can go to places like churches, temples, mosques or meeting rooms to talk about things with other people who believe the same things as you. Some people don't believe in any God or religion. In Canada that is OK too. You are free to think how you want. You must also let other people believe in different things than you.

Circle a or b

In Canada, you are free to practice your religion.

- a) True
- b) False
