CLB 4 – Canada at War

More than 600,000 Canadians served in the First World War. Many of these soldiers fought in terrible battles during the war, including the famous Battle of Vimy Ridge in April, 1917. More than 10,000 Canadian soldiers died or were wounded in that battle and today April 9 is celebrated as Vimy Day.

Canadian soldiers also fought bravely in the Second World War. More than one million Canadians served in this war and 44,000 of these men and women were killed. One of the famous battles in the Second World War was known as the D-Day Invasion. On June 6, 1944, 15,000 Canadian soldiers captured an important beach in northern France from the German army.
