CLB 5 – Who we are

Canada has welcomed generations of newcomers to our shores to help us build a free, law-abiding and prosperous society. For 400 years, settlers and immigrants have contributed to the diversity and richness of our country, which is built on a proud history and a strong identity.

Canadians enjoy many freedoms. However, one of Canada's founding principles is the rule of law. Individuals and governments are regulated by laws and we cannot break the law. This means that we cannot harm other people or steal from them.

Under the law, all Canadians are equal. This means we cannot discriminate against others and we have to respect the rights and freedoms of others.

Review Question:

In Canada, we have many freedoms but there are limits to our freedoms. What is a limit to our freedom?

- We cannot break the law.
- We cannot discriminate against someone.
- We cannot harm other people.
- All of the above.
