CLB 4 – Voting in Canada

In elections, Canadians vote for the people they want to represent them in the House of Commons. Members of the House of Commons are also known as members of Parliament or MPs.

Federal elections must be held on the third Monday in October every four years following the most recent election. The Prime Minister may ask the Governor General to call an earlier election.

Review Question:

When do federal elections happen in Canada?

- When the Canadian people sign a petition for an election
- The first Monday in October every year.
- Only when the Prime Minister wants to call an election
- Every four years unless called by the Governor General
